DEDICATION

This 1975 volume of the PYLON is dedicated to our Dr. David S. Jones, Professor of Anatomy and Surgery, who joined the West Virginia University School of Medicine in 1966.

This is truly a case of dedication in reverse, and our feeble effort to honor the good doctor cannot compensate for his unselfish dedication to us as students, trying to unravel the intricacies of anatomy. His sharing of knowledge was tempered with such a subtle input of humor and human understanding that the otherwise boring study of anatomy became an interesting and evocative subject.

Little Dave Jones, while growing up on a Missouri farm, had no early signals that one day he would be one of our nationally-known anatomists. He pursued the conventional studies in public schools and also at Westminster College, where he graduated in 1932. Following his brother's footsteps, he earned an M.S. degree at St. Louis University, and went on to the University of Minnesota to complete his Ph.D. in Anatomy in 1937. He then joined the faculty of Stritch School of Medicine at Loyola University, where he served double duty, on the anatomy faculty and as a medical student.

He was awarded his M.D. degree in 1945 and started his rise through the academic ranks. He was founder of the Midwestern Society of Anatomists and is a past president of the Cajal Club, an organization for neuro-anatomists. In 1966 a friend, Dr. Donald L. Kimmel, became Chairman of Anatomy at W.V.U. Dr. Jones, visiting a number of times in "Almost Heaven, West Virginia," liked what he saw, left his burdens in Chicago, and settled on a hill overlooking Morgantown.

In 1968 Dr. Jones received the MacLachlan Memorial Award for his excellence in the teaching of basic medical sciences. A couple of years ago Dr. Jones and Dr. Donald H. Enlow, Chairman of the Department of Anatomy, presented papers before the Southern Society of Anatomists and Dr. Jones was selected as the new president-elect of the society.

During the past year Dr. Jones hosted the meeting of the Southern Anatomists in Morgantown.

There are numerous other professional accolades which have been heaped upon this modest gentleman, and it is certain that he is grateful, but we his students, know that his greatest rewards - oftentimes put aside by his wry humor and a twinkling eye - come from the success of his students in the learning process.

THE CLASS OF 1975

OF MEMORIES AND ANNUALS

Memories.
I see you like little fishes,
Swimming just out of reach.
Shimmering,
Swirling,
Flickering against my palm.
I must catch you in my mind.
If I don't.
You will be gone from me
Forever.

When all else has backed away
From the shallows of my mind,
I will remember you
Teaching,
Learning,
Laughing,
Crying.
You,
Who touched my heart every day
And never knew.

I will reach for this book,
Tho of black and white,
And recall
The not always peaceful
But somehow
Always shining
Green waters in which we swam,
With a smile,
But with a little sadness
If I never see you again.

Who would have thought
I would be saying good-bye to you.

CANDIDS

IT TAKES PEOPLE of varied persuasions to make up the medical profession. Their private and public pursuits are always highly interesting, as you will see in the following pages:

For an example, in 1909 a Washington man invented the terrifying device (shown above) for people who wanted to lose weight. Two iron bars were attached by straps across the victim's shoulders and thighs. These bars were connected in turn to a transverse bar, to which was attached a long vertical handle. The operator then rocked the handlebar sideways or up and down. According to the genius who invented this thing, "By such rocking motions, the affected part of the patient undergoes a sort of massage treatment to afford beneficial exercise to remove excessive fat." Did it work? Well, if this was the alternative, many people probably were frightened into sticking to their diets.

I thought a "Jewfro" came up to here . . .

But Dr. Reyer, it's certainly not in the syllabus!

"Flow goes where the resistance is least."

That's not a cadaver you're touching, hot-shot!

I'm hurtin'.

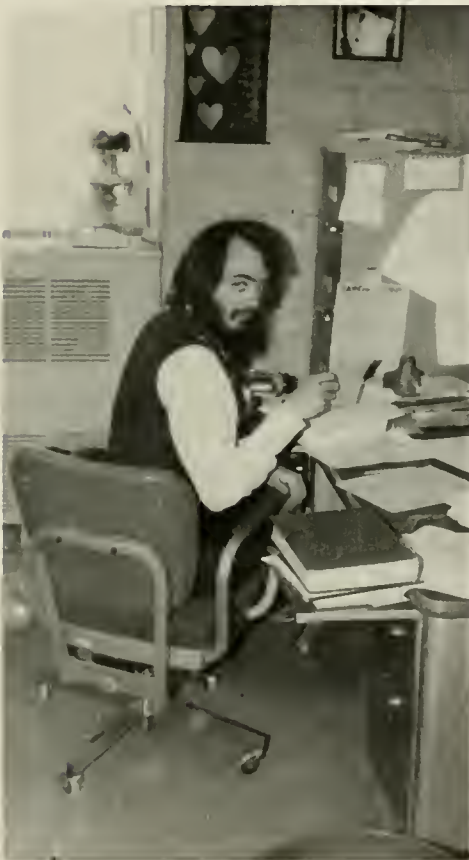

I love to just sit here and gaze at this picture of Dr. Katz.

Is this your new issue of Modern Romances?

Boy, this library sure is lively tonight!

Just a second Dave McD. and I'll look up that fourth year nurse's phone number for you.

Whadda ya know! It really is robust!

Ready! Set! Go!

Is this what you call a blind date?

If at first you don't succeed - get her drunk!

We're having potato chips tonight.

No! You mean mean that Robert Redford looks like me!!

Either let me through to the restroom, or I'll throw my beer on you!

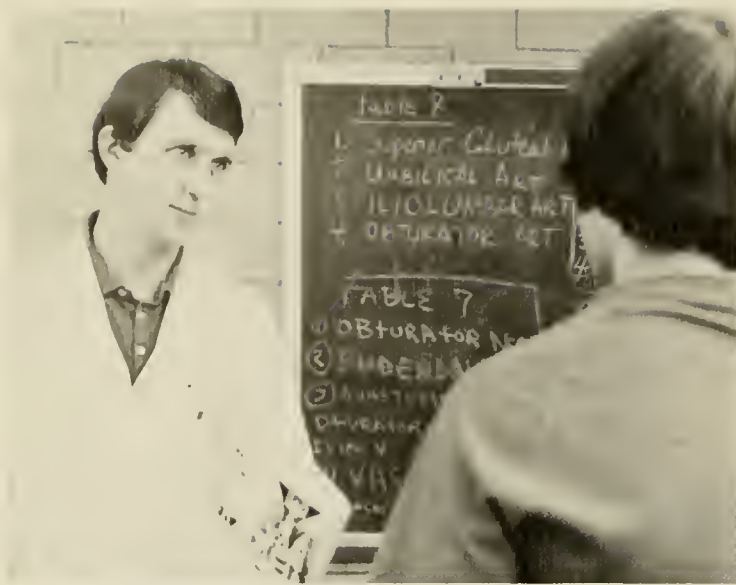

Now, what do you all want for Christmas?

Now class, I'll demonstrate the basic steps of the rhumba!

Water-skiing this weekend? I'd love to!

How can you say that you didn't understand my lecture?

You wouldn't believe what they say is on this slide!

Teacher! Teacher! Can I leave class?

Damn! There really are "Slinkocytes!"

. . . and turn left at the first traffic light . . .

Graphing male and female sexual responses!

Wait 'til they find out that I excised that structure last night!

. . . and get those damn dues in!

Oh I get it! It's a joke isn't it?

What do we have here, Med I's complete answer to Linda Lovelace?

. . . have to hurry . . . got a big game at four o'clock!

How would you like to see me do my imitation of Dr. Friedman?

All the way from Fairmont, and class has been cancelled!?!

. . . and the "angle of the dangle."

Mind your own #$$? business!

My God! They weren't kidding about this food in here.

This kid's got a long way to go.

I love it! I love it!

Looking for fingerprints?

8th Wonder of the World - A rare moment!

Wow! A centerfold in the D.A.!

It's not only quicker than the elevators, it's more reliable.

Going, Going, Gone!

What's Angeluzzi got that I ain't got?

I know size isn't supposed to make any difference, but it was this big!

What kind of a man reads Playboy?

Histo can be fun!

Now, look! I can't let you start in tomorrow's game!!

Are you sure that we ever get new gloves in here?

Are you sure that stuff will get me through the finals?

No, I don't think that you should go first.

How about an armpit smear?

I don't see no glomerulus there!

I think I'm losing my marbles!

Thertainly! I bought thith myshelf . . .

Listen! my friend, I'll have it out in no time.

As the lunch crowd idles by, our distinguished panel reviews all aspects.

From here I can't tell if they're pink or blue lace.

Rem-m-m-m-m-

Blast it! Another D.A. without a single thing about women's lib!

Undaunted by the confusion, our men concentrate on the task at hand.

Then, with unanimous agreement (?) our panel produces the verdict.

"Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life, at last I've found you!"

Fellows! Class is over!

. . . So the salesman tells the farmer: "If you'll show me your daughter's room, I'll stay away from there!"

Somebody help me, please!

They say that if you hold these just right, and say the right words, you can guess the organism.

Eli's coming . . . tra-la-la.

We'll have your books in three weeks or three months - whichever comes first. I think!

Dr. Veltri tries to regroup the team at half-time.

From the bowels of the earth they came.

I don't know! Some guy just left this pan of guts and ran.

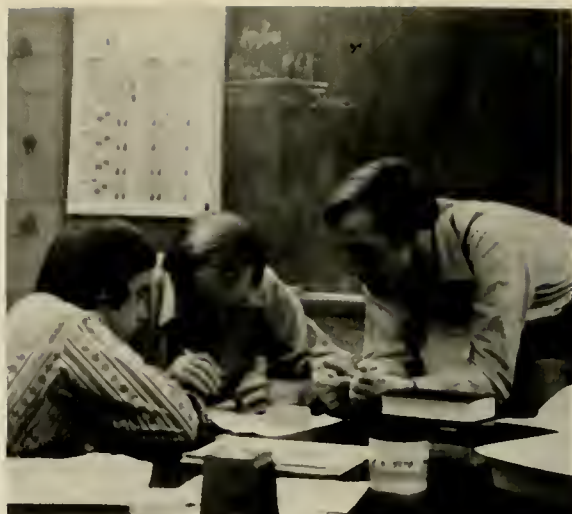

Did Paul say what I think he said?

Let's see! Spark plugs, spark plugs, oh yeah, here they are!

I'm sure we can find a platelet here somewhere. Why! In Iowa, there'd be zillions of 'em!

Are you sure this is dead?

I think I'm going to be sick!

Are you sure this will prepare us for our third year on Medicine?

Who's that guy in black!

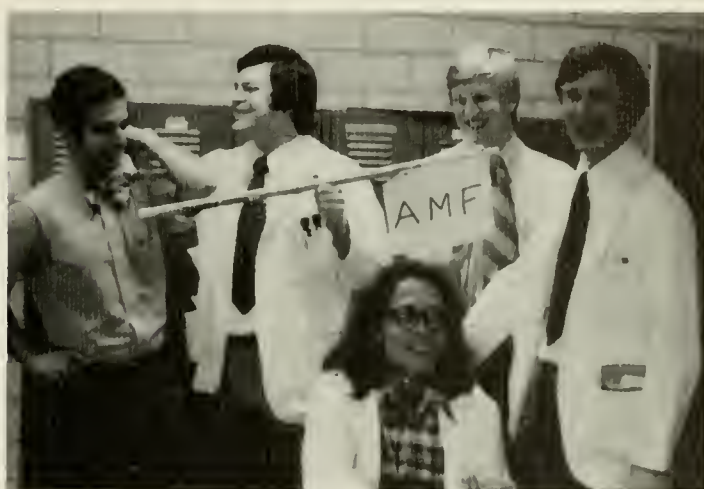

No, Mr. Quality Control. The American Educational Washout does not refer to this class.

"Night and day . . . you are the one . . ."

. . . the promised land.

Adios (blanker-blanker)!

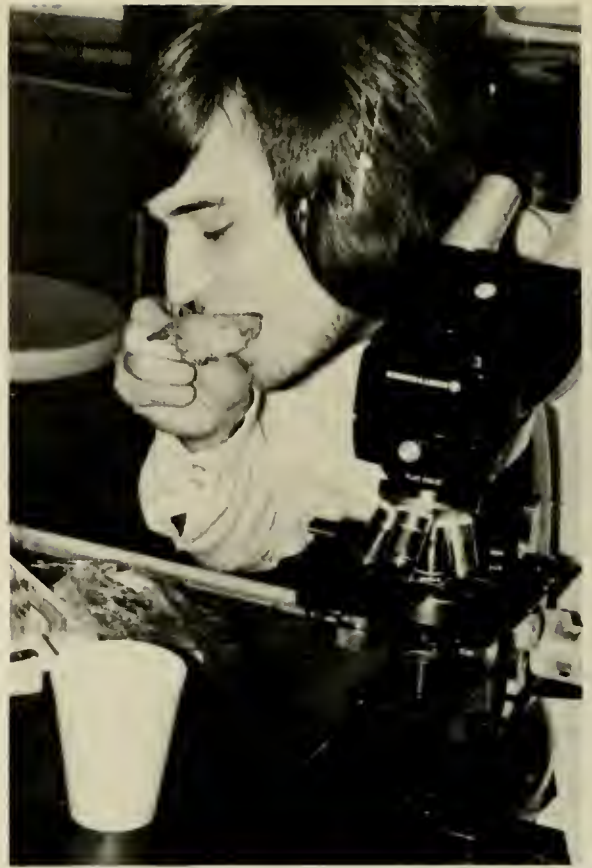

Does "sex" make hair grow?

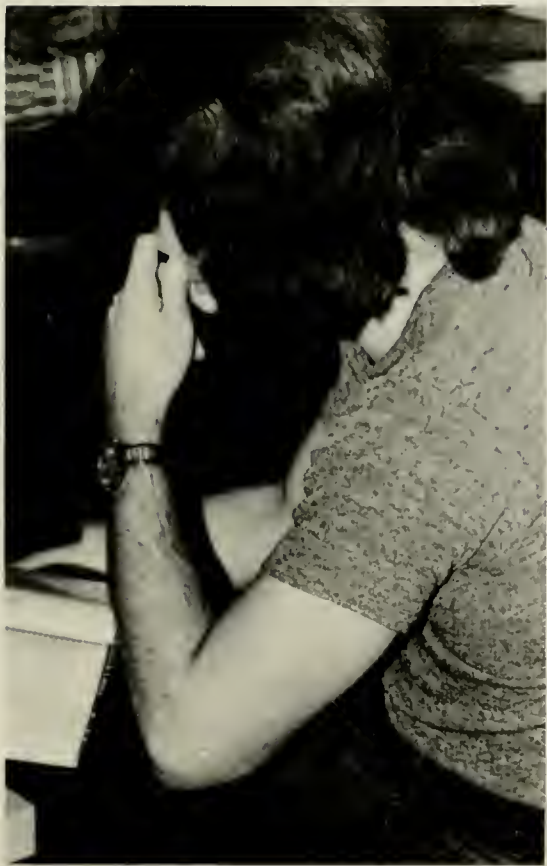

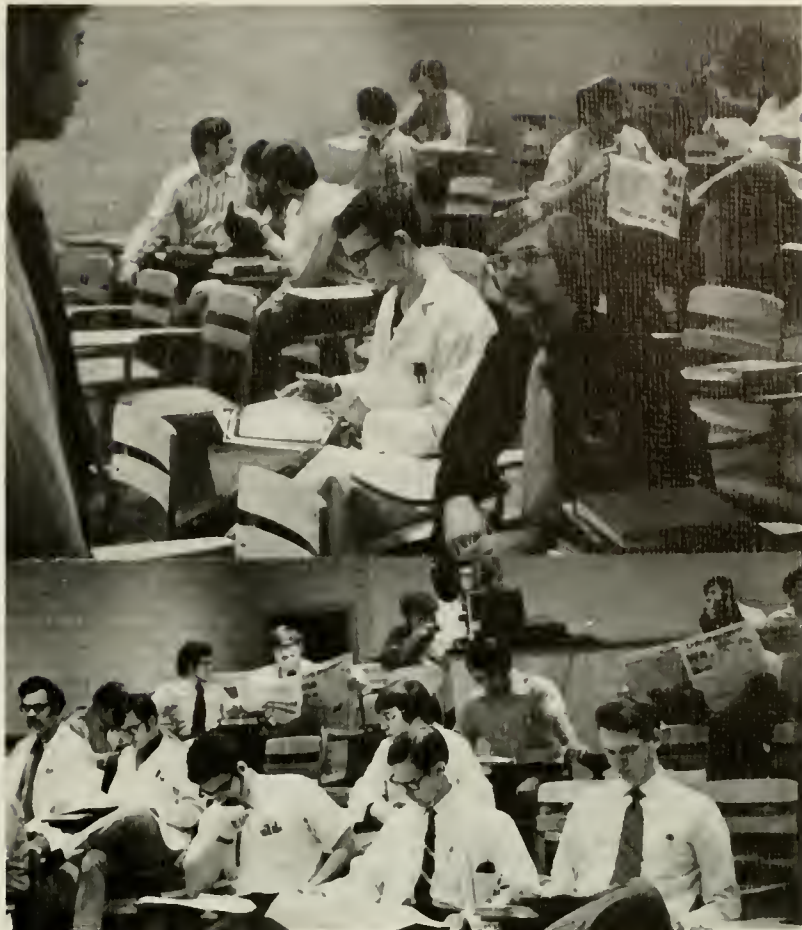

. . . back in '61 when I was a star at VMI . . .

Yeah! But there's other things besides sports!

. . . It's a toadily different idea.

It's just not my cup of tea!

Not everyone can do a headstand!

Well, It's better than my mouth.

Give your girl a goose! A big one for holidays, a small one for weekdays.

. . . One of our crew is missing!

I am quite interested in our Urban Renewal: street markers, fire plugs, decorations, garbage, etc.

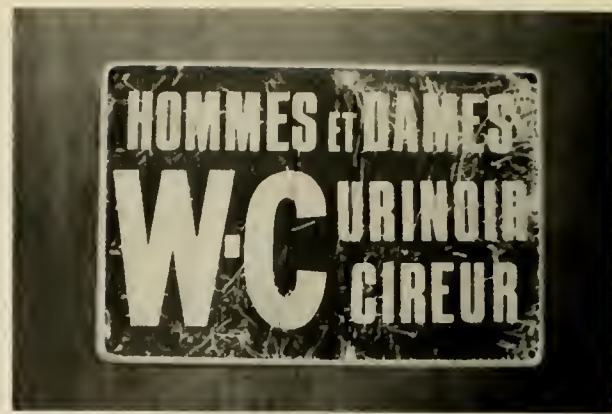

Confidentially, I hope that the paper shortage will become acute.

Please open your mouse wide! And don't say, "Bah-h-h." Say, "Ah-h-h."

No! You can't go 'til it's your turn!

Always nail down your diagnosis.

" . . . Shake, rattle, and roll . . . "

C'mon! What's a little piggy-back ride into the cafeteria?

Believe us! He's the one. We saw him do it!

Oh, yes! I feel totally secure! I do! I do! I do! . . .

Vrom-m-m . . . Vrom-m-m . . .
This is truly the Machine Age . . . I really enjoy hearing the engine run, and the feel of power under me. It'll sure be nice when the folks let me take it out of the barn.

A good mechanic will always go prepared to do a bit of trouble-shooting. This means that he should always have the proper tools for an emergency.

ADVERTISEMENTS

Dear Friends:

The students of the WVU School of Medicine wish to express their gratitude to the advertisers who assisted in making this 1975 yearbook possible. The advertisements are presented in the following pages.

The yearbook, while primarily a source of fond campus memories, also serves as a reference for those concerned with medical education in West Virginia.

The full-time medical students who produce the annual PYLON were motivated to express the human side of their mutually-respected classmates and faculty.

It is because of this pervasive personal awareness within the College of Medicine that the staff also wishes to extend their thanks to a great group of people.

1 of 18,236 Reasons Why CONSOL Cares Most About Safety

At CONSOL we care about the safety of all the people we work with.

Last year Consol spent over $3,500,000.00 and 420,000 man-hours were devoted to various safety training programs and safety equipment development.

And it's paying off—Accident frequency rates per million man-hours were reduced from 23.46 in 1972 to 11.34 in 1973 and, for the first 5 months of 1974, they were reduced still further to a low of 7.31.

But we're just beginning—New and expanded safety training procedures and mining methods are constantly being developed by Consol—

- Methane monitoring
- Automatic warning devices
- Fire resistant hydraulic fluids
- Protective cabs and canopies
- Central communication centers
- New miner orientation...and many others

CONSOL'S GOAL
ZERO ACCIDENTS
